

Wichita Horse Boarding Stable Has a New Owner and a New Name

Wichita Horse Boarding Stable (formerly Windermere Stables) is now Grandview Equestrian Center

Online PR News – 11-February-2011 Wichita horse stable (formerly Windermere Stables) is under new ownership in 2011 and is now called Grandview Equestrian Center. According to the new owner, Kris Craig, it's always been her dream to own one of the biggest and best Wichita horse stables. With 32 over-sized stalls, large indoor and outdoor riding arenas and acres of turn-out paddocks, her new stable might just be Kris's "dream come true". Here are few tips for horse owners searching for Wichita horse boarding facilities. First, most stables will have a web site, so review the facility layout and services. Next try to find other people currently boarding their horse at the stable and see if they are satisfied. Last, arrange a meeting and tour with the owner and trainer. There are a lot of choices for Wichita horse stables; the new Grandview Equestrian Center adds another to the list.
