A real estate investing and website company, RealEstateInvestorsWebsites.net has released an upgraded real estate investor website available immediately to real estate investors. The websites feature numerous customizable designs, advanced property listings, video life-like speaking models for increased conversion, in-built follow-up autoresponders and advanced search engine optimization among others.

Online PR News – 08-February-2010 A real estate investing and website firm, RealEstateInvestorsWebSites.net has rolled out an upgraded version of their Real Estate Investor Websites.

Being interactive and fully database-driven, the websites are adaptable to suit any real estate investing business model such as buying houses, selling houses, flipping houses, attracting private money lenders or any other business model.

Since most real estate investors are not advanced internet users, the websites are controlled from a simple back office including changing designs, content, business model, among others. The front end needs no maintenance.

Having 122 customizable designs, real estate investors can now have a fully customized website unique to their business with in-built automation and follow-up email autoresponders as well as squeeze pages (landing pages) for targeted marketing.

“Our daily goal is to deliver the most effective, results-driven, feature-packed real estate investor websites at prices all real estate investors can afford.”

With the life-like video virtual spokesperson, the Real Estate Investing Websites present a down-to-earth simple, believable sales message designed to convert prospects to closed deals.

Most importantly, the websites are delivered fully optimized for search engines and come with an integrated fully optimized Wordpress blog that notifies major search engines whenever fresh content is posted.

The blog also notifies other content syndication blogs that re-print people's content so they may re-print posted content thereby automatically creating back links to the websites, boosting search engine rankings.
