

Risk Management Software Provider, ClearRisk Inc. Launches New Website

ClearRisk Inc. announces the new ClearRisk.com and a host of advancements including improved navigation, new resources, enhanced support and more. ClearRisk CEO Craig Rowe comments on how users are responding to the new site.

Online PR News – 17-February-2010 ClearRisk Inc. (www.ClearRisk.com) is pleased to announce the launch of the new ClearRisk.com. Bringing together new sites for the ClearRisk Manager, Tracker and Trainer products, ClearRisk.com provides improved navigation, new risk management resources, more accessible support and improved usability all around.

We're receiving a lot of great feedback on how intuitive and accessible the sites are and users think it's great that our risk management resources are still offered for free

"The response thus far has been phenomenal", says ClearRisk CEO Craig Rowe. "We're receiving a lot of great feedback on how intuitive and accessible the sites are and users think it's great that our risk management resources are still offered for free".

ClearRisk Inc. is an online provider of risk management software and solutions assisting users in formalizing their risk management plan creation, structuring claims and risk handling and in learning how to make better business decisions using risk management. "There's nothing mystical about risk management", says Rowe. "It involves formalizing best practices that businesses already employ but don't think of as risk management."
