The web is becoming more and more of an interactive environment. Visitors want to be engaged and have new ways of connecting with businesses. The internet of old was primarily focused on information and how that information is indexed and searched. The new internet engages the reality of the world around and crosses the boundaries of internet advertising as it has been known.

The best interactive design firms for March 2010 are:

Can users easily navigate and use the interactive elements of the website and the applications without any major issues?

1. Agency.com
2. End Communications
3. Razorfish
4. Second Story
5. The Berndt Group
6. Breworks Design & Communications
7. Designsensory
8. iWeb
9. Ideaz Inc.
10. Site Wizard

An in-depth evaluation was completed on every applicant firm by an experienced team of analysts seeking to find the best interactive design companies. They then also contacted at least three clients of each firm in order to obtain their perspective on working with the vendor. Questions are asked of clients such as, “Does the interactive design firm work to ensure that the finished product will be free of bugs and issues?” or “Can users easily navigate and use the interactive elements of the website and the applications without any major issues?”.
