Air Care Life Flights has the highest safety score in the medical flights industry. They now offer lower cost transportation for patients all around the world.

Air Care Life Flights has added new aviation operators to their worldwide network, allowing them to reduce transport costs for patients. They are now one of the lowest priced air ambulance services in the world.

Online PR News – 11-March-2010 Air Care Life Flights, an air ambulance business with more than 30 years of experience in the field, is pleased to announce that they are reducing the costs of their flights by as much as twenty percent. After partnering with new medical flight operating groups, the costs of transporting patients will soon be among the lowest in the industry, allowing patients access to medical facilities and treatments they desperately need.

Air Care Life Flights CEO Steve Wallace says, “We created our original network of air ambulance operators thirty years ago, and continue to add to it, which allows us the best coverage worldwide.”

Adding a number of new aviation operators to their network, Air Care Life Flights is able to offer one way mileage connection flights and profit sharing, which lowers their aviation and medical crew costs. They are looking forward to sharing these savings with their clients, and now boast the lowest cost per mile for many medical transports in the United States.

Whether emergency or non-emergency, Air Care Life Flights works to provide safe transportation for all patients, utilizing highly trained medical staff, and state of the art medical and cardiac equipment. With over a thousand flights, and a safety record free of air mishaps or loss of life during flight, they ensure reliable, timely transportation for those in need of emergency services or scheduled treatment.
