Developer Evolution Vault revealed today their new gaming project.

Online PR News – 08-July-2010 Evolution Vault, developer of online browser games (Xeno) and free war games (Asgard Heroes), revealed today their new gaming project called Draco, a free browser-based MMORPG.

The story of the game is that the Avatar has awakened and ascended into space, searching for fresh blood. Highly efficient killers with the sole purpose of consuming all living, "the Avatars are a symbiotic species which assimilated millions of hosts throughout the galaxy, in order to thrive and be able to modify their surroundings." Bloodthirsty to the extreme, these predators will always seek out new ways to further evolve themselves and become more efficient killers.

"This is it... the newest browser-based fantasy game from the inter web, stated Radu Soldan, CEO of Evolution Vault. As with all respected browser games, to play Draco all one needs is a browser; no downloads are necessary. And the game is completely free!" added the developer of online browser games.
